“ Sweet Paul, I cannot even believe you are no longer here with us . It was so unexpected honey . You are in my head everywhere today . I feel like I can hear you and smell you and see you . If I step outside I envision you and dad working on your car and if I go out back I can still see you cutting trees and brush like you were some unearthly machine lol I still remember every conversation we ever had and we sure had a few . I know I'm not your biological mom but I think I would have loved her much . I love you just like you are my own son . I was so happy when you were doing great and so proud of you . You were so intelligent and could do anything you set out to do . You had a funny sense of humor too. I will miss that so much . You wanted to travel and have many more adventures in your life . Oh how I wish you could have done that . You wanted a family of your own so badly . You were a horrible driver lol and hold some sort of record for the most vehicle rollovers without serious injury lol Imagine how I felt when you bought that motorcycle .... and yes you wrecked it too. How I wish all this hadn't happened to you Paul . One time you told me we were family . That meant everything to me . Their will forever be a void here in my heart in this place, this one special spot inside me reserved for Jared Paul Woodard. I love you my sweet adopted boy . You are now in Gods Keeping and what a special place for a special guy . Sweetest dreams sweetheart.
